Strategies to Build A Secure Relationship with a Very Young Child

- Use a warm, calming voice
- Follow the child’s lead
- Be responsive, show reciprocity in interactions: listen, watch, wait, respond

- Use photos, songs, stories and objects that reflect the child and family’s language and culture
- Use a child’s name

- Use meaningful language
- Use routines such as diapering and feeding as one-on-one time to interact individually
Strategies to Build A Secure Relationship with a Very Young Child

- Attempt to understand the child’s behaviors, communication and needs
- Acknowledge and respond to a child’s needs as soon as possible

- Use natural opportunities to be physically close and comforting (holding, rocking, sitting near)
- Mirror the child’s emotions
- Engage in joint attention

- Spend time on the floor with infants and toddlers
- Reflect on your own feelings, values and beliefs
- Observe
Attachment Relationships
• Attachment is a pattern of interaction that develops over time as the infant or toddler and caregiver engage.
Video 1.8 Supporting Attachment
How can we support the development of relationships?
How can we build on attachment relationships?
How can we use attachment to encourage learning and exploration?
Building Relationships with Families
Activity: Building a New Relationship

• Find a partner you don’t know
• Find a way to get to know your partner
• Write down how you started the conversation and highlight what you talked about
Building Relationships With Families and Supporting the Parent-Child Relationship

• A child’s first and primary teacher is the family
• Supporting and enhancing the parent-child relationship is one of the most important roles caregivers have
• Caring for infants and toddlers is caring for the family
Strategies to Build Relationships with Families

- Communicate daily with families and offer multiple ways to share information (build a ritual at drop-off or pick-up)
- Invite conversation, listen and follow up
- Have regularly scheduled times for face-to-face meetings
- Respect families’ views and child-rearing beliefs
- Seek family evaluations of the program and of your care
Strategies to Build Relationships with Families, cont.

• Seek families’ knowledge of their child’s strengths, needs and interests
• Ask families questions about their child
• Ask families to help
• Get to know family members as individuals
• Share something personal
• Share observations about their child
Forming and Sustaining Relationships with Young Children and Families
Possible Risk Factors Affecting Families

- Poverty
- Nonflexible work situations
- No maternal or paternal leave
- Little support from other family members or neighbors

- Substance abuse
- Domestic violence
Possible Risk Factors Affecting Families

- Challenging relationships with their own families
- Immigration
- Racial/ethnic background
- Cultural isolation
- Mental health of caregiver(s)

- Child factors:
  - Prematurity
  - Developmental delays
  - Special healthcare needs
Caregiver Mental Health Can Impact...

- Birth outcomes
- A parent’s ability to bond and attach to her child
- A young child’s language, cognitive, and behavioral development
- A parent’s ability to follow appropriate health and safety guidelines
What You Can Do as a Caregiver

- Give all parents information about depression and provide positive information about help and recovery
- Inquire about all parents’ feelings at a time and place where you both feel comfortable
- Listen without interrupting and avoid judgment
Activity: Working With Families Inventory

Essential Positive Messages
Activity: Essential Positive Messages for Each Child and Family

1. Please take a moment to generate a list of essential messages for young children and families. The messages should be about…
   – How valuable they are to us
   – How committed we are to them

2. Think about, what are concrete behaviors that will convey the message(s)?
Wrap-Up, Reflection and Action Planning

Reflections

See Behavior – Think:

• Relationships
• Secure attachment
• Protective factors
• Risk factors
• Social-emotional needs
Reflections

See Behavior – Think:
• Experience
• Culture (your own culture and that of the child/family)
• Implicit bias
Reflection

• What questions do you have about the material we discussed?
• What additional strengths are you able to recognize in your work and practices? In the children you care for? Families you help support?
• What strategies did you see or hear that might be useful in your role and work?
Major Messages to Take Home

• It is within families that children learn to experience and communicate emotion.
• Early social emotional wellness develops within the context of relationships.
• Caregivers are critically important to social emotional development of infants and toddlers.
Major Messages to Take Home

• Caregivers who reflect on their own well-being, skills, and perspectives will be better equipped to contribute to the positive social emotional development of infants and toddlers and to supporting families rearing infants and toddlers.

• Caregivers who use a variety of strategies, including observation, will be better able to form close relationships with infants, toddlers and their families.
